BIOGRAPHY

Tammy Anderson is a Biripi woman who has grown up with her family on Dharawal country in Airds, NSW. Tammy began teaching in 2002 as an Aboriginal Education Resource Teacher at Briar Road Public School, a role that she believes developed a strong understanding of individualised learning and the importance of culture in developing Aboriginal students.

Tammy is committed to ensuring that high expectations set the foundation for strong teacher-student relationships for all students within Briar Road Public School. The school is significant to her as she attended there as a student and led the school as the first Aboriginal school captain in 1990. In 2013, she was appointed to the school as Principal. She strongly believes that the change in outcomes for disadvantaged children and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children are possible through developing strong school cultures, empowering community partnerships and the delivery of high quality curriculum that caters to each child's needs.
