

Chris Hogbin

Hi, I'm Chris Hogbin—an Aussie educator with over 15 years of experience teaching mathematics in Australia and the UK. My passion lies in transforming math education to make it not only understandable but enjoyable for students. Over the past six years, I've dedicated myself to researching mathematics anxiety and finding ways to reduce its impact on students' learning experiences. As a frequent speaker at conferences and a teacher trainer in this space, I strive to empower educators with effective strategies to address math anxiety in the classroom. Alongside my teaching and research endeavors, I've ventured into edtech, culminating in the creation of Number Hive—an innovative app designed to revolutionize how students engage with maths. Beyond the realm of numbers, I'm navigating the wild ride of parenthood with my wife and two boys, aged 12 and 9. My mission? To ease the grip of math anxiety and make learning a joy for students everywhere.
